Adopt-a-Highway roadside clean-up "Fall Sweep Week" in Bracken County is September 15-21

Volunteers will be out in forcenext week to "fallsweep" Bracken County's highways. The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) announces that Adopt-a-Highway Fall Sweep Week is Sept. 15-21.

"The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet appreciates the efforts of our Adopt-a-Highway volunteers. For 25 years they have worked selflessly to keep roadways in their communities beautiful and litter-free," Transportation Secretary Mike Hancock said.

Nearly 750 groups participate in Kentucky's Adopt-a-Highway program, which was established in 1988. Volunteers clean approximately 5,100 miles of roadside annually, setting an example of responsible environmental stewardship.

Adopt-A-Highway groups in Bracken County are: Fairview Christian Church Youth Group, Generations Homemakers Club, Horizon Homemakers Club, Lucky K Lakes & Stable, and Milford Christian Church.

The Adopt-a-Highway program promotes public environmental awareness and supports tourism. The program also creates a partnership between citizens, community and government, and establishes a sense of pride in the Bluegrass State.

GET INVOLVED!

How can you contribute to the community, make a difference, send a message and educate others – all while having fun with friends and family? Join Kentucky's Adopt-a-Highway Program. By taking responsibility for an area roadway, you set an example in your community.

The environment is everyone's responsibility. Adopt-a-Highway provides the opportunity to be a part of the solution. Each year, the KYTC spends about $5 million and 200,000 worker hours to collect and remove 96,000 bags of highway litter. Adopt-a-Highway volunteers help save thousands of taxpayer dollars and demonstrate that a clean environment is a shared responsibility.

Any permanently established business, association, community or public organization, or government entity can adopt a stretch of highway. A wide range of groups throughout Kentucky now participate, including homemaker clubs, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops, high school organizations, service clubs, veterans, college fraternities and sororities, sports teams, neighborhood associations and church groups, among others.

Volunteers adopt two-mile sections of highway under a two-year, renewable contract with the Transportation Cabinet.

Adopt-a-Highway coordinators can explain the fundamentals of the program to volunteer groups, work with group members in locating an available highway, and keep them notified of news and upcoming events.

Litter pickups are held at least four times per year or as many times as necessary to keep adopted areas reasonably litter-free. The cabinet coordinates three annual clean-up efforts.

HOW DO I JOIN?

Groups interested in becoming members of the Adopt-a-Highway Program can find details and district coordinator information at <http://adopt-a-highway.ky.gov/>. Safety guidelines are provided to volunteers and should be reviewed prior to each cleanup. In Bracken County contact Solid Waste Coordinators Tommy and Caroline Jefferson at 606-735-9960.

The Adopt-a-Highway coordinators help volunteers get in touch with the county maintenance crew superintendent to arrange warning sign placement on the date of pickup. Trash bags and safety vests can be obtained at each state maintenance facility, and litter-bag removal is provided by state highway crews.

For more information, visit <http://adopt-a-highway.ky.gov/> or contact area coordinator Nancy Wood at 859-341-2700 or e-mail nancy.wood@ky.gov.

Religious Institutions

Fairview Christian Church

Doubtless the first Christian services were largely prayer services, with reading and singing. Often the preaching was done by a Circuit Rider. It is said that when the second building was ready to be occupied, they met at the old school house, and marched into the new house singing.

When the Restoration Movement began to be known, the church was really organized as a New Testament Church. Early pastors were Rev. Billy Hall, and Rev. Henry Pangburn. Elder William Houston often did the baptizing. Many are the stories told of these services and of the great religious fervor that was manifested, and of the response to the appeal of the Gospel.

About 1879, Rev. Thomas Minnell, State Evangelist, came and held a meeting. At this time it was decided to build a new church, and plans were made, money raised, and work began. The building was dedicated in June 1880, by Rev. Thos. Meyers, who used as text for his sermon the 132nd Psalm. A wonderful meeting was held, and many new members came into the church. The first to unite were W. S. Lytle and Frank Miller.

Those influential in the work of building the church and who served as officers were Alex Pepper, A. D. Houston, James Cribbett, Frank Jordan and William Yelton. The first minister was Rev. F. M. Hurst.

To this time the Fairview Christian Church has remained practically the same, with only small alterations. The building has been kept in good repair, and is in every way adequate to meet the needs of the congregation.

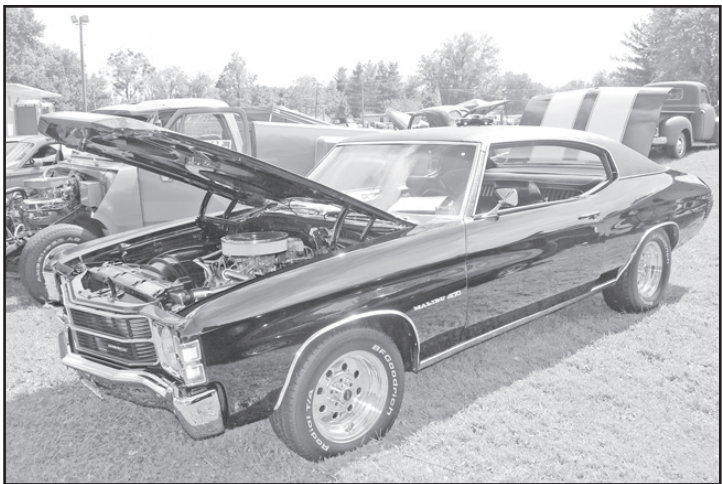

The present congregation numbers about 125 and the present pastor is Rev. P. M. Runner.

Wesley Chapel Church - Neave, KY - In October 1915, a revival was held at the Neave School house by Rev. Robert Robinson and Rev. E. H. Ritchie, resulting in some sixty professions.

At the close of the revival a class of fifty-two members was organized by Rev. J. R. House of the Mt. Olivet charge by the District Superintendent until someone could be secured for the work.

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

POPE FRANCIS

In his first official meeting with journalists, the new pope gave some insight into why he chose the name Francis. After the two-thirds vote was reached, a fellow cardinal from Brazil, Claudio Hummes, embraced him and said to him "Don't forget about the poor." This stuck with him, he said, and immediately made him think of St. Francis, who was devoted to the poor, renouncing his father's considerable wealth as a young man and living essentially as a poor beggar. St. Francis was known as "Il Poverello," the little poor man. Pope Francis went on to say that as the vote-counting continued he thought about war, and St. Francis's devotion to peace. The first line of the prayer of St. Francis says "Lord, make me an instrument of thy peace." And finally, St. Francis was enamored of nature and saw God's hand in all of physical creation. Pope Francis summarized his choice of names by saying "Francis of Assisi...the man of poverty, the man of peace, the man who loves and guards creation." This was a good choice of names, and inspiring ideals for the man leading the world's largest Christian denomination. — Christopher Simon

"Defend the weak and the fatherless; uphold the cause of the poor and the oppressed. Rescue the weak and the needy; deliver them from the hand of the wicked." - Psalm 82:3-4

by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian

Judy England is in the hospital at St. Elizabeth. She is undergoing tests and probably will be out of the hospital when you read this. We were visiting her on Sunday afternoon and one good thing about her being there is that she had a great view of the Labor Day fireworks from her window.

Larry England continues his chemotherapy treatments. He is about half way through the treatments.

Our attendance was down a little Sunday morning. One never knows who will be out of town visiting and who will come to town visiting.

Earl and Millie Bush had some of their grandchildren visiting with them. Bob Marshall had foot surgery and was not present but we expect him to be back next week.

There will be a session meeting before church Sunday. We will have a special worship service featuring John Hendrix who will be talking about his mission trips. After church, we have a special celebration honoring Margie Hill who will leaving us to go to Colorado to live. There will be a carry-in dinner. Sunday afternoon there is a Singspiration at the Christian Church.

Earl Bush led worship, Barbara Nickoson led the singing, there was no children's church because of this being communion Sunday, and Kay Grooms did the power point.

Put on your calendar Wed., Sept. 11 as the day for our bread basket meal. We hope to see you there.

Harrison Memorial Hospital receives infection control award

When patients are admitted to Harrison Memorial Hospital (HMH), each one can be confident the best care is given by the most educated and trained medical staff in the area. Case in point, the staff at HMH has recently undergone extensive training to enhance patient care focused on preventing a common healthcare-acquired infection called catheter-associated urinary tract infection (CAUTI).

On August 28, Medline Industries, Inc., a provider of healthcare products and the developer of a CAUTI prevention program, recognized HMH with an Excellence Award for its ongoing success and dedication to CAUTI prevention. HMH was recognized in the nationwide program for being one of the top ten hospitals in 2012, with a zero percent CAUTI infection rate. The program has 228 facilities in the ERASE CAUTI program.

CAUTIs affect approximately three quarters of all catheterized patients. They can be dangerous and potentially deadly to the patient and expensive to treat. By implementing a comprehensive CAUTI prevention program, HMH is helping eliminate the number of CAUTIs occurring in its patients during their hospital stays. The hospital is also achieving considerably savings, since the average cost per case is estimated to be $44,043, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

According to the CDC, CAUTIs are the most common hospital-acquired infections. At any given time, one in four hospital patients will have an indwelling urinary catheter—many of which are unnecessarily placed—and 75% of all urinary tract infections are associated with a catheter. CAUTIs have also been associated with increased morbidity, mortality, hospital cost and length of stay.

By collaborating with Medline, HMH experienced dramatic results over a 33-month period. The program implements a systematic approach that includes clinical education products and assessment tools. In addition to these, Medline Industries offers assistance in tracking the program's effectiveness and continued support through webinars, user groups and peer networking activities.

"We are very pleased with the results. We feel the success is due to the increased staff education on the cause and prevention of CAUTIs and the interventions we've put into place," said Sheila Currans, HMH Chief Executive Officer. "Patients expect our best efforts and our goal at HMH is to deliver high quality care consistently. Our results with CAUTI is a testament to our staff who practices high quality care every day with every patient encounter. I congratulate them for the consistent practice."

National Quartet Convention to offer FREE FRIDAY Webcast Sept. 14

During the week of September 8 through September 14 over 40,000 Southern Gospel Music fans, representing at least 40 states and more than a half dozen foreign countries will travel to Louisville, KY, for the 56th Annual National Quartet Convention. This will be the 20th and final Convention in Louisville, before the event moves to the city of Pigeon Forge, TN, in 2014.

This year's Convention will no doubt be special for those attending this final year in the city of Louisville. The world's largest gathering of Southern gospel musicians and fans began meeting annually at Freedom Hall in 1994 bringing tens of thousands of people to the city. In 2012, the NQC brought 40,000 people to Louisville with an economic impact of $7,955,500. "The NQC has enjoyed remarkable success in Louisville as the Kentucky Expo Center gave us room to grow and reach our full potential. Though we feel the need to relocate to a vacation destination and a mobility friendly venue for the immediate future, we will always look back fondly at our 20 conventions in Louisville as they were all more successful than any of the other NQC's that had occurred prior to moving to Louisville," said Clarke Beasley, Executive Director of the NQC.

The new venue will be located in Pigeon Forge, TN, the state which hosted the very first NQC in 1958. Long-time Convention attendees are looking forward to the move; however, many wonderful memories have been made in Louisville, where the Convention has seen tremendous growth. With this year being the final year in Louisville special festivities are planned to celebrate the success of Louisville and the excitement that awaits in Pigeon Forge.

While thousands of fans will make their way to Louisville, many who are unable to attend the event in person will have the opportunity to watch performances taking place in Freedom Hall live, as it happens, or on demand through the NQC's popular website, www.nqconline.com. All events taking place in Freedom Hall throughout NQC Week will be available through the webcast. This is a feature the NQC has offered for several years now; however, in celebration of the final year in Louisville, the NQC is making the Friday webcast available to the public for free. NQC Free Friday is expected to produce viewership from all over the world. "Through the webcast, subscribers can watch all events live, as they occur on the main stage in Freedom Hall or on demand through the end of October," Beasley explains. "The webcast has been very popular over the past few years. This year we are thrilled to offer Free Friday, as we expect this to be an extraordinary day, celebrating the rich history the Convention has enjoyed during our two decades in the city of Louisville." In addition to viewing the festivities of NQC 2013 over the NQC webcast on a computer, subscribers to the webcast will also be able to view the webcast on their televisions through their Roku device.

Complete information about the 2013 National Quartet Convention, as well as a complete schedule of events scheduled throughout the week may be obtained by calling 1-800-846-8499 or visiting www.nqconline.com.

Ways to help your friends who are dealing with cancer

Submitted by Shannon Smith, CEA for Family and Consumer Sciences

A cancer diagnosis is a life altering event for those diagnosed as well as for their friends and family. Unfortunately, cancer occurs far too often. The National Cancer Institute Surveillance Epidemiology and End Results program estimated that in 2009, more than 12.5 million Americans were living with a cancer diagnosis. Breast and prostate cancers were the two most common types.

A cancer diagnosis can be very scary for the patient and their family members. As a friend, you may feel helpless and unsure about what you can do, but you can be helpful and supportive in many ways during this time of need.

It is important to learn as much as you can about your friend's diagnosis and treatment regimen. Perhaps your friend is willing and able to talk about it, but note that this can be an especially emotional subject and time, especially for those recently diagnosed. Let them tell you what they want you to know and don't push for more information. You can also learn about a diagnosis from family members, other friends, physicians, helplines and various educational resources. Knowing this information can help you better understand and prepare yourself for the disease and treatments and be more empathetic to your friend.

Before visiting, call ahead and ask permission. If your friend has recently undergone chemotherapy or radiation, they may be too tired for visitors. Let them know it's okay to say no. If they say no, you may want to make plans to visit in the future when they are feeling better. You can also set up a time to talk weekly on the phone. Let your friend know it's okay if they don't feel like answering when you call.

Many times, cancer, its treatment and subsequent emotions can be overwhelming, so it may be hard for your friend to pinpoint ways you can help. Offer to help with specific tasks, such as babysitting, caring for a pet, shopping for groceries, doing laundry or preparing a meal for the family. You may also want to ask a spouse or family member for other things you can do to be helpful. Realize that they may decline your offer and if they do, you shouldn't take it personal.

Treat your friend as normal as possible. Offer to go for a walk with them. Talk about mutual hobbies and interests. If you both are interested in crafts, do a project together. Let them know you care and are thinking about them. Also let them know you're there if they ever need to talk.

Avoid giving them medical advice. While someone in your family may have had the same diagnosis, each individual's condition and treatment may vary, and their treatment regimen is a decision they should make with guidance from their doctor.

Additional information about family life topics is available at the Bracken County office of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

TRASH TALK

by: Mr. Recycle Bin & Ms. Pick-Up Litterbug

606-735-9960

Howdy Folks! We think we are getting 'older'! Our fourth grandchild has reached the driving age and Dillon will be taking his permit test this week! That leaves fifteen grandchildren to go, but we are not rushing any of them to reach sixteen! We thought our children grew up fast, but time is simply flying by as the birthdays keep coming faster and faster for the grandchildren! We pray all young drivers keep to the task of driving and do not get distracted. When we were new drivers, there was no such thing as cell phones to grab our attention away from the road and not nearly the amount of vehicles on the road that there are today! Of course, way back then, most families only owned one vehicle because Moms stayed at home to take care of the family, working in the fields and raising a garden. Times may have been more labor intensive, but families worked, prayed, cried and laughed together which made the family unit stronger and in turn, helped create a stronger America.

Trips down memory lane are good, but reality usually sets in with the work at hand and today is no exception so we must get typing to have the article ready to meet the early deadline! One item we needed to mention is the upcoming fall cleanups and the use of roll-offs to dispose of the trash resulting from those cleanups! We talked with the personnel at the Mason County Landfill and they are winding down with their busy season, so we are shooting for the middle of September for the start-up time for dumpsters to be located in the county. Again, we will start on the western end of the county and work eastward. If all goes as planned, we should have four dumpsters at one time to speed up the fall clean. Again, we remind you that these roll-offs are regulated by the Mason County Landfill and it is important that the rules be followed.

One rule that definitely needs to be followed is that NO TIRES be put into the dumpsters. Our Bracken County Tire Amnesty is October 24, 25 and 26 which means that it costs you absolutely nothing to take your unwanted tires on those three days to the Bracken County State Maintenance Barn on Highway 10 east of Brooksville. If tires are put into the roll-offs, we will have to pay for them twice – once in the total weight of the dumpster and then individually, beginning at $3.50 for a passenger tire, up to $15.75 for large tractor tires. So please, no tires in the roll-offs!

While we are on the Tire Amnesty, we send our sincerest appreciation to Mary Ann Cummins and the Woodmen of the World Insurance Agency, David Appelman and his advisory council of community farmers known as the Bracken County Ag Advancement Council of the Extension Office and Donna Rath and the Committee for the Bracken County Soil Conservation District Office. These three groups have graciously agreed to provide lunch for the State and County Road Department employees and the Division of Waste Management employees who will be working at the Tire Amnesty! With the help of these dedicated groups, the amnesty will run much more smoothly! When we attended the planning meeting for the amnesty, we were asked if we had the lunches lined up yet! Bracken County has developed a reputation for good food! We also have a good reputation for RECYCLING, REUSING and REDUCING to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seen' you – Bin & Bug.

Summer ends on a high note at the Kentucky State Fair

Further solidifying its place on the Kentucky event calendar, more than 615,000 visitors traveled to the Kentucky Exposition Center this August to compete, enjoy and entertain at the commonwealth's largest summertime attraction.

The 109th Kentucky State Fair drew 615,648 visitors through the gates, up slightly from last year. The Fair has welcomed more than 6,000,000 attendees over the past ten years. Both weekends had spikes in attendance, including the last day that saw 9,000 more fairgoers than last year.

"We celebrated 11 days of Kentucky music, culture, agriculture and entertainment, and the response we heard was tremendous," said Kentucky State Fair Board President and CEO Clifford "Rip" Rippetoe. "We introduced some positive changes to the Fair this year and heard encouraging feedback to build on."

Among the changes, the new weekend parking plan, which included free parking at neighboring Papa John's Cardinal Stadium, created options for fairgoers to park and lessened the weekend parking congestion.

"The new parking plan worked as smoothly as we hoped," said Rippetoe. "People who used it raved about it and we saw a marked difference in weekend traffic flow."

The updated Turf Concert Series in Cardinal Stadium drew capacity crowds in its first year with seats on the field. The outdoor stadium held more than 12,000 fairgoers during the Casting Crowns concert on Monday, Aug. 19 and more than 15,000 fans on Friday, Aug. 23 during the Montgomery Gentry concert.

In addition, 29 competitive entry departments brought in more than 46,000 entries, an increase of more than 2,000 from last year.

"The most valuable thing we can promote is the talent of our commonwealth and this year showcased some of the best we've ever seen," said Rippetoe.

Augusta Cross Country has eventful 1st week

August 26 marked the first day cross country teams could compete in a regular season meet, and Augusta wasted no time getting started. The team had actually gotten its season underway on August 24, traveling to the Saturday Night Lights meet in Centerville, OH, for a practice meet.

They opened up the regular season by traveling to Ashland, KY, for the Early Season Showcase hosted by Fairview Independent. Several of Augusta's sixth graders brought home medals for the K-6 race. For the girls' 1-mile run, Madison Kelsch placed 10th with a time of 10:11. Cassie Bacon came in 17th, running the mile in 11:03. In the boys' 1-mile run, Seth Fouts placed 7th with a time of 8:47, while Skyler Haas placed 10th, running 8:57. In the varsity boys' race, times typical for this time of year were run. Leading Augusta was sophomore Camryn Snapp, complete the 5K in 20:03, placing 26th out of 115. The next closest Panther was Thomas Mains, finishing in 22:48.

On August 31, Augusta traveled to the Ryle Invitational to take on the northern Kentucky competition. For many of the middle school runners, this was their first 3K race (1.86 miles). David Reed ran the quickest time for the Panthers, finishing in 15:46. Seth Fouts was the second Augusta runner to finish with a time of 16:55. In the boys' varsity 5K, 149 runners stepped to the starting line. Snapp led the way for the Panthers, finishing 32nd in 18:04. "Camryn took two minutes off of his time from Tuesday. I know Ryle is known as a fast course, but that's still good to see," Coach Literal commented. "Had he been running in the JV race, which is probably more of his age group, he finishes first, based on his time." Nick Zeidler knocked a minute off of his previous 5K time, while Jessie Zornes crossed the finish line six minutes sooner.

Next up on the schedule, Augusta will compete in the Mason County Invitational on September 14.

Archery hunting for deer begins Sept. 7

Kentucky's 2013-14 deer season opens on Saturday, Sept. 7, the first day of the 136-day archery season. The season continues through Monday, Jan. 20, 2014.

For the past three seasons, record harvests have been posted for the month of September: 5,577 deer in 2012, 4,945 in 2011 and 4,407 in 2010.

Most deer, even mature bucks, are still in their summer pattern when bow season opens. They are more visible during daylight hours than later in the season and their daily movements are more predictable. Deer frequent crop fields and weedy pastures in the late afternoons, especially when the rising moon is high in the sky at dusk. In September, these quarter moon periods fall on the 12th and 26th of the month.

The current statewide population estimate for Kentucky's deer herd is about 750,000, before fawning, with a stable to slightly decreasing trend. "Hunters who are monitoring trail cameras or spending time observing deer in the afternoons realize it has been a good year for deer reproduction and survival," said Brunjes. Heavy rains in the spring and early summer created lots of food and escape cover for deer.

The outlook for deer season is excellent, but ultimately the weather during modern gun season in November has the biggest impact on overall harvest.

Last season's deer harvest was the highest on record. Deer hunters reported taking 131,395 deer, a 9.8 percent increase from the 2011-2012 season. "A higher percentage of our hunters were successful," said Brunjes. "The record harvest was opportunity driven. They saw deer and they took them."

The 2012-13 harvest included 42 reported entries, 31 typical and 11 non-typical, into the Boone & Crockett Club record book. These record deer came from 35 of Kentucky's 120 counties.

After each season, deer managers calculate a population estimate for every county by in-putting harvest and age structure data into a computer population model.

Counties are assigned a zone status which affects season lengths and bag limits. Kentucky is divided into four deer management zones.

The management strategy for Zone 1 is herd reduction. For Zone 2 and 3 counties, herd maintenance is the goal. Increasing the herd is the aim for Zone 4 counties. This season there were no changes in the zone status for any of Kentucky's 120 counties.

"We're where we want to be in most counties," said Brunjes. "There were no changes in the regulations this season because we're happy with having a high percentage of older bucks and about 50 percent of does in the harvest."

Overall age structure of the harvest indicates that the majority of hunters are recognizing and passing up male fawns. Most antlered bucks taken in the 2012-2013 season were 2 1/2 years old or older. The female harvest was also primarily comprised of adults, rather than fawns or yearlings.

In the past decade, the Zone 1 counties in northern Kentucky have experienced the most herd growth. "Populations took off in the late 1990s and have remained high," said Brunjes.

Hunters who would like to donate venison should visit the Kentucky Hunters For the Hungry website at www.huntersforhungry.org for the list 57 processors who are accepting deer.

"This is our 13th season of providing nutritious venison to needy Kentucky families," said Ivan Schell, KHFH Executive Director. "The 70,000 pounds of venison processed annually provides about 500,000 meals."

KHFH pays for the processing and hunters who donate a deer receive a car sticker confirming their "doe-nation."

Sports in Kentucky by Bob Watkins

Tip hats to 'Tops, Stoops says as honeymoon ends rudely

Western Kentucky & Kentucky? • The start set the tone. The Hilltoppers opened at their 25, then, with efficiency, confidence and mid-season poise, they marched 75 yards on nine plays to score. Next, three touchdowns on four possessions. Never trailed, was never really threatened.

• Point of efficiency? WKU's offensive line cratored run lanes for Antonio Andrews and pals, let quarterback Brandon Doughty stand and deliver - complete 27 of 34 passes for 271 yards and a touchdown.

• Early success made WKU linebacker Andrew Jackson's yap ... redundant.

• Point spread, Kentucky favored by four-and-half was for fellow who fell off the turnip truck. The handicapper for this one must've been living in Bob Petrino's pocket since summer, (don't pick us to win). Ignored were last year's Hilltopper win in Lexington, neutral site this time, Petrino's record in season openers (8-0) and record against Kentucky (4-1). A game that begged for a NO-line, was handicapped to order for the Petrinos. Let us hope the spread-set guy lost his shirt. But we doubt it.

• Shirts? Hilltoppers stylin': Love the new-age helmets, but jersey numerals are straight out of Mrs. Wilder's second grade.

• Intersectional marquee game this Saturday? Knoxville, Tennessee – Tennessee and Western Kentucky.

• First internet item following the WKU win: Close-up photo of Bobby Petrino smiling over a cut-line: "How do you like me now?" • Kentucky? Tackling reminded us of the movie Groundhog Day. Again and again and again. Atrocious.

• Other sideline. The rude sounds of car doors slamming were not the end of a spoiled tailgate party. Was end of coach Mark Stoops's honeymoon.

"(Western) controlled us at the line of scrimmage," Kentucky's coach said, "created some good run plays, different looks. ... Simple things, you know, leverage on the football, I thought we were very poor."

• Stoops best postgame remark: Told his players "... to tip their caps to a WKU squad that was better on this night and move on to what's next."

• Most alarming reality for UK fans? In a sport where speed is as essential as drawing breath, the Wildcats looked slow moving, slow reacting, slow-slow.

• Reasons for optimism? ✓ Kentucky's opening lineup included 11 who had never started a college game, five on offense, six on defense.

✓ This week's foe, Miami of Ohio led Marshall 7-0 and lost 52-14.

PARALLELING NIGHTMARE

A multi-task nightmare Saturday night for one man (blush) holding the teevee remote. Western Kentucky and Kentucky on ESPN (207) kicked off at 7:15. On Direct TV 659 St Louis Cardinals-Pittsburgh Pirates at PNC Park stared at 7:10, playing for lead in National League Central. Flashing between first down snaps and first batter pitches was a recurring nightmare in parallel-ing.

Early going was a severe challenge. In Nashville, Western Kentucky and Kentucky scored 21 and 10 points early, while in pennant-fevered Pittsburgh, the Pirates put up two runs in the second inning, five more in the third.

Back and forth, muddled by a passing thunder storm that whipped at the satellite signal. The confused teevee remote searched for this channel and that one frantically..

Football ... baseball and back again. When both games hit on commercials at same instant, was time to check 202, see if Wolf Blitzer had started firing cruise missiles at Syria yet.

Tough night.

America. I love this place.

BASKETBALL PRIMA DONNA FACTOR

This week's prima donna notes ...

No. 3. Louisville Ballard's Quentin Snider, one time pledge for Louisville, now has more than a dozen colleges on his List. The kid 'cut' Indiana and Memphis recently. His father Scott keeps media abreast of all 'breaking news.' No. 2. Dick Vitale. On point guard prospect Emmanuel Mudiay commit to SMU, Voice of ESPN added a pointless tweet: "Congratulations time 4 SMU. Who would ever believe that SMU would beat Kentucky in recruiting?"

No. 1. 13th rated prospect, Theo Pinson, a North Carolina commit, gets this week's best prima donna move for stupidity. At the Under Armor Slam Dunk contest Pinson scored a flying for a dunk shot over his mother.

CHALLENGE DEPT.

Al Starnes, head coach at Crittenden County more than two decades, chose a moment before his team's season opener last month to reveal to his players a routine colonoscopy three weeks before had revealed a tumor. His surgery was scheduled for before game one.

His Rockets won their opener at Fulton City, then beat Hopkins County Central the week after. Starnes's straight-to-the-point remarks to his players was as good as education gets. As in, tough times, how ya gonna handle it?

Starnes seized a moment, reminded his players and us, "In life we have to deal with things outside our control and this is just one of those things."

The 52-year-old coach is recovering. His experience, how he handled it, is a coming-at-you-live experience in everyday humanity.

WORTH REVISIT DEPT.

Gene Keady will be inducted in College Basketball's Hall of Fame this year.

Formerly coach at Western Kentucky, Keady once said: "... would be the best thing in the world for freshmen not to play (college basketball) their first year. I don't know if it's realistic or not, but if they put it to a vote, I'd vote for it."

Keady's remark was made in February, 2004.

PARTING SHOT

From Kentucky coach Mark Stoops after Western's win over his team Saturday, best understatement: "We looked out of place."

And so it goes.

Frankfort Focus
A Legislative Perspective on the Kentucky General Assembly
State Rep. Mike Denham

Every year since the late 1980s, the Kentucky State Police has published a highly detailed break-down of the previous year's crimes, giving us a much closer look at – and appreciation of – the work done every day by our law enforcement officers.

This information from local and state departments alike is also crucial for those who oversee the state's criminal justice system, because it points out trends that might otherwise go unnoticed and helps us determine the effectiveness of programs designed to make Kentucky safer.

A good case in point is the General Assembly's renewed efforts last year to crack down on prescription drug abuse. By making it much easier to track and then stop this type of crime, we predictably saw the overall number of drug-related arrests increase by about 3,000 in 2012.

The full scope of our drug problem, by the way, becomes even clearer when taking a longer view; consider that last year's arrest total is nearly three times as high as 1995's.

Other comparisons with that year show some other stark historical differences. There were 7,000 fewer DUIs last year than a generation ago, for example, and firearms were more than twice as likely to be used in homicides back then as now.

Homicides, of course, are the most serious crimes law enforcement investigates, and there were nearly 280 last year. Most were categorized as premeditated, with arguments the leading cause. There were nearly as many cases involving couples as there were drug dealing, and one homicide was tied to gang violence.

Overall, and not too surprisingly, violent crimes are about twice as likely to lead to criminal charges than property-based crimes. That's not always the case; such categories as gambling, prostitution and drug offenses also have a relatively high arrest-rate.

From a monetary standpoint, thefts are traditionally the biggest category of property crimes by far, with an estimated $150 million stolen last year, only a fifth of which was recovered. Money and jewelry were predictably the most coveted items among thieves, but there also were $3.4 million worth of televisions and radios stolen, $3.1 million in firearms and even about $1 million in livestock.

Several other related crimes posted losses in the millions of dollars as well. Nearly 4,700 cars and trucks valued at $30.4 million were stolen in 2012, and robbers took $2.1 million more.

Burglars, meanwhile, swiped $43 million in 2012, with the average take totaling about $2,000. Although burglary is often thought of as a nighttime activity, more than half of the cases took place in the daytime.

The KSP report also breaks down these crimes at the county level. Here in our 70th House District, which consists of Bracken, Fleming and Mason counties, we had two homicides last year, 28 vehicles stolen, 254 break-ins and 353 reported assaults.

There are only about 10,000 sworn officers and full-time civilian personnel at the state and local level who respond to all of these serious crimes across the state, which on average occur less than every three minutes. That means the thin blue line protecting us is just two-tenths of one percent of the state's population, which makes what they do even more remarkable in context.

Over the last two years, Kentucky has been among the nation's leaders in implementing reforms that maximize these contributions, and a month ago, we were among the few states recognized by the U.S. Attorney General in his remarks about the need for the federal corrections system to follow examples like Kentucky's.

We are always looking for ways to build on these efforts, and our next goal will be to see how we can improve our juvenile justice laws, something a task force is already studying and that is scheduled to have proposals when the next legislative session begins in January.

As always, if you would like to contact me about this or any other issue, you can reach me by writing to Room 329G, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601.

You can also leave a message for me or for any legislator at 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

I hope to hear from you soon.
